Superintendent's Report

To the School Board and citizens of the Town of Weare:

I herewith submit my second annual report.

The record of the year closing June 15th, 1923, was, with the exception of attendance and an extra amount of tardiness, generally satisfactory. The usual standards of scholastic accomplishments were met. The High School very properly has an influence on the elementary and grammar studies and standards. Our aim is, and must continue to be, to set the highest possible standard for the High School, and then begin with the first grade and work persistently and consistently towards it. This means that we must have a well defined standard of achievement for each of the grades.

The work, grade by grade, follows the normal development of the average child; for example, the work of the fifth grade is designed for children who have reached their eleventh or twelfth year. In general, it is safe to say, that no younger child is mature enough to carry successfully the work of that grade.

Last year we were able to place six, who, for some reason had been graded too high, in a grade better suited to their stage of development. We shall have to take similar action, as soon as possible, with about ten more.

In this connection, permit me to call attention to the state law, which makes school attendance compulsory between the ages of eight and sixteen. In harmony with this law, local districts, by custom and regulation, have made the minimum age, for school attendance, six years.

No younger child may legally attend school, except by special permission of the local School Board. Very few children are able to do high school work efficiently before their fourteenth birthday.

The Weare High School can and will plan to meet the needs of all children in town who complete the prescribed work of the elementary and grammar schools. I do not hesitate to urge citizens to plan, from the first grade, to have every child attend their own High School. It can be done.

The new and improved text books, in arithmetic, geography and grammar, are a great help and already have justified the extra expense involved. We have purchased some new reading books, on account of the increased numbers in grades one and two. More readers and new histories will be needed next year.

In November, of this school year, the State Board gave tests in arithmetic and spelling to all eighth grade pupils in the state, about 500 in all. The arithmetic test was one given to ninth grade pupils, average age fifteen years, in Springfield, Mass., in 1846. The average age in New Hampshire, in 1923, was thirteen and one half years. The 1846 results were 29.41% correct. The state average for 1923 was 49.26% correct. In Weare seven pupils took the test, with an average of 66.07%. About 200 pupils, of the 500 taking the test, had correct papers; two of these came from Weare. The state average in spelling was 67.24%, while the Weare average was 74.28%. A similar test in Springfield, in 1846, averaged 40.65%. The conclusion is obvious: School children in New Hampshire today can spell and work ordinary problems in arithmetic.

Nine school buildings are in use this year, all are in need of minor repairs. The Friends, South Wear, Buxtons and River Road buildings must have more extensive repairs and alterations, in order that they may approach the modern standard prescribed by state law and regulations. The town health officer has called our attention to the unsanitary and dangerous conditions that are all too evident at the Friends and Buxton schools.

The exhibition of school work, held in November, was a success from every point of view. We plan to make it an annual affair.

The High School experienced a very successful year. The graduation of the first class of fourteen was a memorable event in the history of the town.

Wearè young people have shown very convincingly, that they can make good in high school and college. Therefore they have earned the right to ask for advantages and privileges that a generous community can give them.

I understand that the town, through the generosity of one of its citizens, has sufficient funds for a new library building. Therefore, permit me to suggest, if satisfactory arrangements can be made, that one building be constructed, which will accommodate both the Library and High School, without putting any of the funds, intended for the Library into the High School building. I am sure that resulting coöperation between these two institutions would add greatly to the usefulness of each.

The record of all the schools, in attendance and achievement thus far this year, has been good. It could, without injustice to any one, be greatly improved. Our schools can be fully efficient only, when all the children are present and on time every day.

Respectfully submitted,

GAIUS BARRETT,
Superintendent.
